

Athina Poursaitidou

Archaeologist - Museum Educator

Athina Poursaitidou is member of the coordinating team for the schools of Museotek company. Her aim is to develop the Museotek contacts network and to promote digital education in schools all over Greece but also in Greek-speaking schools abroad, contributing to the strengthening of the educational process through the use of new technologies. Graduating of the Department of History and Archeology at Aristotle University of Thessaloniki and holding a master degree in History and History Teaching of the Department of Primary Education at National & Kapodistrian University of Athens, she has a special interest in the adoption of experiential teaching methods combined with the use of multimedia and modern digital tools. She has also worked as a museum educator, designing and implementing educational programs in both museums and cultural institutions, emphasized on digital museum education.