

Kostis Kanakis

Historian - Permanent Exhibition & Communication Manager

He was born and raised in Heraklion, Crete. He earned his bachelor degree in History from the University of Athens and then his master degree in Turkish Studies from the University of Crete. At the same university he devised his doctoral thesis entitled "Medicine and public health in late Ottoman Crete". For his postgraduate studies, he received scholarships from national and international institutions. Starting from 2022 he is the Permanent Exhibition and Communication Manager of The Nikos Kazantzakis Museum. At the same time he is actively involved in the development and digital transformation projects of the Museum.